

BLACK POWER AND THE NATURE OF BEING

By Clinton Hutton

The concept of Black Power is largely used to denote the establishment or the struggle for the establishment of a political ethos, contingent on the agency of political actors, exuding Black Consciousness.

This paper focuses on a conception of Black Power (not the mainstream of Black Power discourses) as the culturing of an ontological state rooted in a notion of being congruent with the sovereignty of Blackness.