PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

As part of our ongoing efforts to enhance and redefine the manner in which tertiary education is delivered, The University of the West Indies proudly supports the Faculty of Law's Inaugural Symposium on Law, Governance and Society.

A first for this Faculty, this Symposium will provide a critical platform for academics, practitioners, students and the public to share ideas and engage in conversation on subject matters that are at the root of our development as a civil society. The diversity of issues being discussed at this three day Symposium highlights concerns that affect our development as a society and our ability to engage proactively with the international community. International trade, social governance, institutional development, corruption and gender equality are all discourses that have helped to provide the groundwork for functioning societies, but which require further discussion and analysis if we intend to provide Jamaicans with the best quality of life possible. In this vein, I applaud the Faculty of Law for recognising the relevance and importance of staging this Symposium and for bringing together both national and international experts to share their knowledge and stimulate further thought and discussion on law and governance in Jamaica.

I believe that this Symposium will ultimately aid in enlightening not only the academic community but the general public in the functions, roles and necessity of law and governance in our society. As Principal, I extend my deepest congratulations to the Faculty of Law for what will certainly be viewed as an outstanding and pioneering Symposium.
