CSOD partners with STATIN for Census 2022

The Caribbean School of Data (CSOD) led the training for some 7,500 Census Takers and 1,000 Census Supervisors, employed by the Statistical Institute of Jamaica for Census 2022. This year's Census exercise is the first time digital devices would be used for the Census exercise being carried out islandwide.

The CSOD developed an online platform that could facilitate the delivery of training both virtually and face-to-face. These included training videos, quizzes, in-class exercises and manuals. The training also included a Train-the-Trainer component. Through the use of Google Classroom, the sessions saw persons being able to participate in groups. The resources will be available post-training.

According to Dr. Maurice McNaughton, Director, Centre of Excellence & Innovation "The team provides support on an ongoing basis." He added "Part of our resourcing model is to use as much as possible Computer Science students who are part of our Technical Support team at MSBM. They were significantly involved primarily around the initial configuration of the training platform, as well as the set-up of the classrooms for each training."

MSBM Consulting Partners With MOEY for Education Transformation

MSBM Consulting has been contracted by the Ministry of Education and Youth (MOEY) to guide the implementation of the recommendations of the 2021 'Reform of Education in Jamaica' Report. This involves developing an implementable project plan with initiatives that are time-bound, measurable and specific. Read more

STUDENT ENGAGEMENT

Orientation 2022

MSBM welcomed hundreds of new graduate and undergraduate students for the academic year 2022/23 in face to face orientation sessions for the first time since 2019. The sessions which were held over the period August 8 - 30, 2022 proved to be very meaningful as faculty/staff engaged with eager students having not done so in person for the past two years.

The sessions provided the new students with information on their programmes and the opportunities for extra curricular activities, critical information regarding the University's regulations for higher education programmes as well as details about the financial obligations. In addition, students got the chance to meet faculty members, programme coordinators and some alumni.

STAFF ENGAGEMENT

MSBM Staff Get Together to "Bounce Back"

After two years of navigating the COVID-19 pandemic which among other things, affected the way staff work and interact together, the "Bounce Back" Staff Get together held on August 26, 2022 ahead of the new academic year was a breath of fresh air.

Faculty and staff engaged in a time of fun and fellowship and food followed by a time of entertainment. Some staff members had not even met each other as most staff members worked mainly from home over the past two years.

PINK DAY 2022

In commemoration of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, MSBM hosted a special Breast Cancer Awareness session on Friday October 28, 2022. This included a presentation from guest speaker Lovelette Fofoe a breast cancer survivor. Staff wore pink to raise awareness, stand in solidarity with and show their support for the survivors.
