This course builds on the fundamentals of auditing theory and practice. It covers the management of the audit process including quality control of audits and some special industry audits. Other areas such as internal audit and forensic accounting will also be covered. The professional Code of Ethics of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Jamaica is also revisited. Throughout the course, emphasis will be placed on current issues and problems in auditing and research done on these issues and, in particular, how these issues impact on the accounting profession in Jamaica.

ACCT6105 – Advanced Management Accounting

This course seeks to provide, primarily through cases and readings an understanding of the conceptual and practical issues relevant to the design and use of contemporary cost management and management control systems in the context of technological change and intense global competition. In the first section of this course, the design and use of cost management systems for process management and as strategic decision-support systems will be explored. The analysis and application of accounting information provided by these systems is extended to specific industries such as manufacturing, health care and banking. Business process reengineering, as an effective long-term cost management tool, is also examined. In the second, section of the course, current issues in management control are reviewed, in particular, the design and use of contemporary performance measurement and reporting systems. Behavioral and organizational issues relevant to the implementation and use of these systems are also addressed.

ACCT6106 – Advanced Taxation

This requirement of the M.Sc. degree is designed to explore methodological issues and applied research on issues critical to improving the practice of accounting and financial management in the Caribbean region.

MGMT6100 – Management Information Systems

This course seeks to expose accounting students to the fundamentals underlying the design, implementation, control, evaluation, and strategic use of modern, computer-based Information Systems (IS) in their discipline.

Today's organizations are increasingly dependent on Information Technology (IT) for achieving their business goals. Many organizations rely on IT to help them compete in new ways. Organizations need workers who are comfortable with IT concepts, knowledgeable about IT applications, and capable of applying IT to all organizational areas including accounting, finance, human resources, marketing, sales and customer support, and manufacturing.

MGMT6115 – Corporate Environment & Strategy

The Corporate Environment and Strategy Course is designed to provide graduate students in accounting with an appreciation of the strategic challenges confronting Caribbean based organizations. An appreciation of these challenges is obviously critical in order for the Accounting Specialist to play a critical role in the development and execution of organizational strategy. In an effort to assess these strategic challenges, the course will operate at three levels of analysis:

1. National

2. Industry
3. The Firm

In this regard, the course of study will be divided into three modules. The first module, taking a national macro level of analysis, will examine issues relating to the management of national economies and the challenges facing developing country nation-states, with a particular focus on the nations of the Caribbean region. The second module will focus on the strategic challenges confronting industries, and the final module will examine the strategy development process at the level of the firm.

MGMT6116 – Corporate Finance

The main objective of this course is to provide an understanding of financial decision making and financial theory from the point of view of corporate financial managers in competitive financial markets. This course presents the corporation as a collection of projects, each of which contributes to the firm's cash flows, and hence, the value of the firm. It aims to provide a framework, concepts, and tools for analyzing corporate finance problems and issues, based on fundamental principles of modern financial theory, with an understanding of application to "real world" scenarios. The approach is rigorous and analytical. This type of analysis enables the financial manager to identify and solve management problems related to the financial operations of businesses. Specific competencies to be developed include quantitative, problem-solving, written, and oral communication, information technology, and lifelong learning skills.

MGMT6117 – Financial Markets and Investments

This course will examine the investing environment from the perspective of the investor (both individual and institutional). We will look at how financial markets operate the appropriateness of the financial products, the pricing on those products and the determination of and influence of risk in the pricing determination. We will also look briefly at the secondary and derivative markets.

MGMT6118 – Legal Environment of Business

This course will be presented in six modules. It begins by building on foundational aspects of law – the nature of the legal system and its importance to the business environment. The second module will begin by introducing students to the general nature and purpose of business regulation and an overview of various regulated sectors. It will then focus on some domains that attract regulation, identifying the specific risks/hazards, which justify their regulation and the legal contours of the regulatory environment for each domain and how businesses are affected. Module 3 examines and reviews the legal principles in Jamaica's insolvency law and also assesses the position of secured creditors upon insolvency. The fourth module presents an overview of legal liability, which may arise for players in the business environment. It looks at contractual and tortious liability, the increasingly important subject of the liability of directors, criminal liability for companies and professional negligence with a focus on the accounting profession. The next module examines the law relating to intellectual property and raises the moral, ethical, and pragmatic issues surrounding the legal principles in this area. Finally, students will be exposed to topical issues in corporate governance and corporate responsibility and how the law reflects the developing policies in this area.
