Professor Neville C. Duncan, BSc, MSc UWI, PhD Manchester
– Director

INTRODUCTION

SALISES as a multi-stringed instrument, continues to achieve substantial outputs in all its units and sections. This was an extremely good year both collectively and individually. As I say goodbye I must say it was a privilege to work with such a wonderful team.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT

The Institute co-hosted two major international conferences during this academic year. Dr. Aldrie Henry-Lee was Coordinator and Chair of the highly acclaimed “Caribbean Child Research Conference” financed by UNICEF, held at the Jamaica Pegasus Hotel, October 21-22, 2008, Jamaica. Drs. Philip Osei and Eris Schoburgh, were organizers and co-chairs of a conference on Local Governance and Intergovernmental Relations in the Caribbean: Examining the Past, Assessing the Present and Predicting the Future. January 8-9, 2009. SALISES participated significantly in a conference hosted by the Centre for Gender and Development Studies, Cariforum Regional Gender and Trade Workshop and SALISES on Women’s Rights Analysis of Economic Partnership Agreements: The Implication of Trade Liberalisation, spearheaded by Dr. Leith Dunn. The Institute of Gender and Development Studies IGDS and the Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies (SALISES) collaborated on hosting a seminar on “Establishing Common Ground: A Conversation on Reforming the Laws on Abortion in Jamaica”, at The Undercroft, UWI, Mona Campus, April 23, 2009. Dr. Henry-Lee was also Coordinator for the Teachers’ Workshop on Child Rights for Secondary School Teachers held on May 19, 2009, funded by UNICEF, Jamaica; and also for the Teachers' Workshop on Child Rights for Primary School Teachers held on June 2, 2009, funded by UNICEF, Jamaica. In these and in a number of international collaborative workshops, the SALISES Secretariat.

A significant honour was bestowed on Krisitin Fox, at the PIOJ's 20th Anniversary Conference, for her sterling contribution to the production of the Jamaica Survey of Living Conditions. Dr. Aldrie Henry-Lee received, along with Professor Julie Meeks (Caribbean Child Research Centre) the Principal's Award (FSS) for the project with the most economic/developmental/business impact. Dr. Patsy Lewis won the Baroness Amos fellowship 2009/10, Centre for Caribbean Studies, Warwick University.

SALISES' net income from the cross-campus delivered MSc programmes for the year under review was commendable and it becomes necessary that the allocations between campuses and with the UWI be resolved urgently so that the Regional Institute can proceed with its development programmes.

DATA AND DOCUMENTATION CENTRE

The DDC provided timely information and library facilities to the graduate community of the Mona Campus of the University, especially in the Social Sciences. This was done either through its own stock or by allowing access through the internet and/or the World-Wide-Web. Other local and overseas researchers also utilized the facilities, especially visiting Consortium Graduate School students from the United Kingdom and the United States. In terms of stock, the DDC worked in conjunction with the Main Library to increase our access to electronically packaged journal articles. We, nevertheless, continue to acquire relevant print documents, including copies of government documents (local and overseas), UN reports and those of other international agencies, work produced by SALISES Fellows and the other staff members of the Social Sciences Faculty, and conference papers (published and unpublished). Students and faculty have had access continuously over the last decade to hundreds of journal titles, abstracts and/or full text from several electronic journal packages through the main library's web-page. Not all our required journals are included in the electronic packages and also to ensure continuity of service we continue to renew yearly subscriptions to approximately 100 journals. We also continue to receive a substantial number of journals through gifts and exchanges. Readings were processed for both semesters for the SALISES Graduate Programme, as well as a variety of graduate courses from all the departments in the Faculty with particular emphasis on Human Resource Development Programme (HRD) and the Department of Government.

Our main database – ISERG — grew by approximately 80 records during this period, the CGS database (which lists our book and photocopy holdings for the various graduate programs) also increased by 50+ records, and substantial corrections were made to the SWTP database which holds our older documents. Work was also continued on the Ministry Papers' database (MPJ) and the more recent lists of Ministry Papers (2002-2008) were obtained from the Parliamentary Library. All data has been entered and editing of the database has begun. The web-interface which allows the databases to be accessed from any computer on campus is out of order but Mr. Richard Leach hopes to rectify this soon. Users of the DDC during this period included SALISES research staff and students, FSS faculty, and students, Mona School of Business students and overseas students. Formal orientation programmes on the use of the DDC were conducted for the 2008/9 cohort of students in Departments of Economics, Government, and SALISES.

Throughout the year informal orientation sessions were done for new users of the DDC. A number of displays were mounted at the DDC by staff during the period. Research Days were held from January 29-30, 2009, the theme being Enabling Cutting Edge Research. Ms. Norma Davis and Mrs. Nadine Newman coordinated this activity and members of the academic another SALISES staff helped with the manning of the booth. Posters were also produced regarding the Child's Research Conference co-chaired by Dr. Aldrie Henry-Lee and Mrs. Julie Meeks Gardner, for display on Research Days. SALISES obtained a double booth on this occasion so had more space for display.

DEREK GORDON DATA BANK

The Databank continued to provide technical services to post-graduate students, provide datasets to student and researchers both in Jamaica and elsewhere. The DGDB obtained the following data sets: the SLC 2007 and the PATH evaluation datasets. Documentation of datasets is being published online using the IHSN software – IHSN Microdata Management Toolkit. We also developed a database for tracking requests for data so that we can monitor the requests to ensure a timely response. It also serves to document demand over time. Our website has been moved to Mona domain but we still have complete control so can make changes as we see fit. This means that we have significantly more space so will be able to upgrade our website.

A number of post-graduate students attended the SPSS course during the 2nd semester. This was highly successful with only one student failing the course. Feedback was good. The main negative related to poor availability of course material. This will be addressed.
