

SIR ARTHUR LEWIS INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC STUDIES

Aldrie Henry-Lee, BSc, MSc, PhD
University Director

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT

Professor Aldrie Henry-Lee was appointed University Director of SALISES commencing January 1, 2018 for 3 years. Dr Arlene Bailey was promoted to Senior Fellow as of August 1, 2017. Dr Natalie Dietrich Jones joined the institute in the capacity of Fellow on August 1, 2017. In October 2017, a Grants Writer/Projects Officer and a Marketing Officer were employed by the institute. The Grants Writer/Projects Officer was tasked with sourcing grant opportunities aligned with SALISES researchers, writing grant proposals, assisting with the development of research budgets as well as assisting with managing said budgets. The role of the Marketing Officer is to promote and lift the profile of the institute through various marketing initiatives with emphasis on the graduate programmes being offered, research being undertaken and seminars and conferences being held. A full marketing plan is to be implemented in the 2018/2019 academic year. Professor Patsy Lewis started her third year of leave. Dr Jimmy Tindigarukayo and Professor Mark Figueroa proceeded on retirement. SALISES Mona had a successful academic year.

SALISES had a staff retreat on January 11, 2018 at the Caymanas Country Club. PVC Webber and Dr Hinds were in attendance to assist staff with understanding how SALISES fits into the UWI Triple A Strategy for 2017–2022 and aided in formulating a draft operational plan for the institute. In March, SALISES had Quality Assurance Review, Mona was reviewed on March 7–9, 2018.

SALISES was contracted to conduct policy relevant research in the form of a feasibility study on the implementation of a Global Jamaican Immigration Card (GJIC) for issuance to members of the Jamaican diaspora which was led by Dr Jimmy Tindigarukayo. Support was provided by the institute for proposal writing to United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) on a Human Security project which was led by Dr Arlene Bailey. SALISES also partnered with the Organization of American States (OAS) on a research project “A New Path: Promoting a Healthy Environment and Productive Alternative for Juvenile Remandees and Offenders in Jamaica” with Dr Jimmy Tindigarukayo as the principal investigator, Dr Dacia Leslie and Prof. Garth Lipps as advisors. SALISES was contracted to complete the first Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Report for Jamaica in October 2017. The co-principal investigators for the report, Prof. Aldrie Henry-Lee and Dr Arlene Bailey subsequently served as members of Jamaica’s National Delegation for the United Nations High-Level Political Forum (HLPF) on Sustainable Development for a Voluntary National Review (NVR) Report on the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals held at the United Nations Headquarters, New York in July.

Emerging from the Sustainable Rural and Agricultural Development Cluster was the completed sugar heritage film projects “Sugar Cane: Recycling Sweetness and Power in Modern Jamaica” -4 part adult documentary series and “Ms Sugga” 4 part animated educational film/tv series for children and a first of its kind, created entirely in Jamaica, for which a press launch was held in December 2017. The Migration and Development Cluster was developed in 2018 as an inter-disciplinary group advancing knowledge of contemporary migration issues in the Caribbean and is constituted by academics and stakeholders in the public and private sectors.

In celebration of the UWI's 70th anniversary, A Vice-Chancellor's Forum was held under the theme "Economic Transformation with Social Growth: W. Arthur Lewis's Contribution" at the Regional Headquarters on Tuesday, January 23, 2018. The forum was attended by over 70 people and viewed via live stream by over 4000 people on UWI TV. An open day followed on the lawns of SALISES in an effort to promote awareness of the institute to students and the wider UWI community. Presentations were made by the Office of Graduate Studies and Research, EduCom, UWI Bursary, graduate programme coordinators and past students. Displays were mounted reflecting the work of the institute as well as a new feature "Where are they now?" depicting past students in their current roles of employment.

SALISES hosted its 19th Annual Conference, a signature event for the UWI 70th anniversary under the theme "Sustainable Futures for the Caribbean: Critical Interventions and the 2030 Agenda" at the Holiday Inn Resort Montego Bay on April 25–27, 2018. The conference was organized by Conference Chair – Professor Aldrie Henry-Lee, Conference Secretariat Programme Chair – Dr Patricia Northover, Conference Secretariat Programme Co-Chair – Dr Natalie Dietrich Jones, Mrs Sonia Amons-Davis, Mrs Yhanore Johnson-Coke, Miss Kemesha Kelly, Miss Krystal Lawrence, Mr Richard Leach, Mrs Nadine Newman, Mr Orin Spence and Miss Nicole Thwaites. The conference was attended by scholars, development practitioners, policy makers, students and the general public. At the conference, a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) was entered into between The UWI and The Institute of Development Studies (IDS). The MOU will be implemented by SALISES. IDS is an independent global institute for research, teaching and learning, and impact communications located at the University of Sussex, UK.

DEREK GORDON DATABANK

The Databank continued to fulfill its mission to source, acquire, document, archive and make available micro data sets from the Caribbean region, to facilitate socioeconomic analysis, and to provide and manage cutting-edge Information and Communications Technology (ICT) for the Institute with specific emphasis on data management, teaching and research.

Data Acquisition

- Jamaica Youth Activity Survey 2016 – STATIN
- Survey of Living Condition 2015 – PIOJ/STATIN
- Jamaica Agricultural Census 2007 – STATIN
- Trinidad and Tobago Women’s Health Survey 2017
- Latin America Public Opinion Project (LAPOP) 2010 – 2016

Data Documentation

The Databank continues to use the cataloguing tool NADA for online documentation of all data sets. Links to online documented surveys are available on the Derek Gordon Databank webpage (<http://www.uwi.edu/salises/databank.php>).

Software

A variety of software were procured and installed on the computers of members of staff based on needs such as Microsoft Office Suite, Endnote X8, Inkscape, QDA Miner, SimStat, Norton Antivirus and Adobe Reader.

SPSS is used to track the progress of the MSc Development Studies students produced in a quarterly report to the Academic Staff. Two online surveys – an entry survey for new students and an exit survey for graduands is administered, the analyses from which serves as a guide for the institute to continue the development of programmes and improve the overall graduate experience.

NORMAN GIRVAN DOCUMENTATION CENTRE

The Norman Girvan Documentation Centre continued to deliver invaluable information and library service to graduate students at the University and more specifically to those in the Social Sciences. Other local and overseas researchers also utilised the facilities, especially visiting lecturers, research fellows and graduate school students. The Centre continued to work with the Main Library to increase access to online databases while at the same time acquiring relevant print documents including government documents (local, regional and international), UN reports and those of international agencies, work produced by SALISES Fellows and other staff members of the Faculty including conference papers. A special collection of newspaper articles was sent for digitisation in coordination with the Main Library. All staff continued to work with the Research Fellows they were assigned to for the Selective Dissemination of Information (SDI) and updating staff on new publications from other research institutions pertinent to their research interest and the Research Agenda of the institute. The staff continued to work on the integration of the special collections into the ALEPH database. These included material donated by: Brian Meeks, Patsy Lewis, Michael Witter, Claremont Kirton and the Centre for Caribbean Thought. Most Caribbean material were inputted into the system. The Centre hosted an undergraduate student, Miss Carma Bryce, from the Department of Library and Information Studies (DLIS) for six weeks during the period April 2–May 11, 2018. Five scheduled Information Literacy (IL) group sessions were held with students from various Departments within the Faculty of Social Science.

PUBLICATIONS SECTION

SALISES has embarked on a new online publication project, the Sustainable Futures Policy Brief Series, coordinated by Dr Patricia Northover and Dr Dacia Leslie with the support of the head of the Publications Unit, Ms Annie Paul and Marketing Officer, Mr. Orin Spence (see <https://salisespolicybrief.blogspot.com/>). This is an outgrowth from the online policy commentaries previously started by the Publications Section with the support of PVC, Global Affairs, Ambassador Richard Bernal. Professor Bernal acts in an advisory role for the Sustainable Futures Policy Brief Series. This new initiative offers to support the timely dissemination of ideas on critical or new public policy issues based on the research of its fellows as well as from the wider university community and leading professionals.

Annie Paul launched PREE (preelit.com), a unique online magazine for new contemporary writing from and about the Caribbean. PREE has already caught the attention of young writers looking for opportunities and positive mainstream media coverage with several articles in Trinidad and Tobago and one in the UK Guardian as one issue was published in April 2018.
