

SIR ARTHUR LEWIS INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC STUDIES (SALISES)

Professor Brian Meeks, BSc, MSc, PhD – Director

The Year of Fifty-Fifty

This was a year of intensified outreach, engagement and research as the Fifty-Fifty project moved into high gear. In 2010, 'Fifty-Fifty' was launched as a novel research project that would use the upcoming (2012) fiftieth anniversary of independence of Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago as a vehicle for a critical inter-disciplinary examination of the independence experience in the Commonwealth Caribbean, alongside a perusal of the prospects for the next fifty years. A series of some seventeen research clusters were established drawing on academics and practitioners in Jamaica, the Caribbean and internationally in order to implement the primary Fifty-Fifty objectives as well as to forge trans-disciplinary and interdisciplinary networks for further cooperation.

Activities commenced in 2010 and included among the highlights of the first year, the 12th annual SALISES conference on the independence experience in small developing countries and a series of three Prime Ministerial Reflections, with former Jamaican Prime Ministers Edward Seaga, P.J. Patterson and Portia Simpson-Miller. Events continued apace in the academic year 2011-12 with some twenty-one events, including:

- A seminar critically reviewing the Planning Institute of Jamaica's (PIOJ) "Growth Inducement Strategy" jointly hosted with the Department of Economics.
- A round table organised by the Education Cluster to collate and assess the various documents associated with post-independence educational policy in Jamaica.

- A series of seminars, “Through Women’s Eyes: Conversations of Independence”, hosted by the Gender Cluster - a team led by the Institute for Gender and Development Studies. Four seminars were held and others were planned for the remainder of the year.
- Participation by the Sustainable Rural Agricultural Development (SRAD) cluster in a jointly sponsored event held in St Mary to recognise the International Day for Rural Women.
- A seminar organized by the Grenada cluster, “Grenada: Retrospective on a Revolution” to commemorate the October 25th anniversary of the Grenada invasion.
- The hosting of the annual Caribbean Child Research Conference, this year under the theme “Promoting Child Rights with Equity: Our Children in Post-Independence Times”.
- A lecture by distinguished New York University (NYU) Professor Pedro Noguera, entitled “Education for Social and Economic Development”.
- The hosting by the Law and Justice cluster of a conference, “Law and Justice in the Commonwealth Caribbean” with keynote speaker St Lucia’s Prime Minister Kenny Anthony.
- The co-hosting with the University College of the Cayman Islands in Grand Cayman of “The Fifty-Fifty Conference: Surveying the Past: Mapping the Future”, with a focus on the prospects for the non-independent Caribbean.
- Cooperation with Florida International University (FIU) and the Digital Library of the Caribbean in the exhibition “Fifty-Fifty Road to Independence: Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago”, held at FIU.
- Keynote address by Professor Brian Meeks “Jamaica on the Cusp of Fifty: Whither Nationalism and Sovereignty”, at the Seminar “Fifty Years of Jamaican Independence” held by the Institute for the Study of the Americas, University of London.

- Lecture by Professor Paul Sutton on “The European Union and Overseas Countries and Territories: Search for a New Relationship”
- A conference, hosted by SALISES St Augustine entitled “Trinidad and Tobago at Fifty: A Model Nation?”
- A seminar hosted by the Social Policy cluster entitled “Has Social Policy Achieved Anything since Independence?”
- A collaborative international Conference led by the SRAD cluster, “Globalization, Climate Change and Rural Resilience”.
- A symposium hosted by the Education cluster, “The Financing of Education at the Primary and Secondary Levels”.
- Keynote address by Brian Meeks at the seminar hosted by Casa de las Americas in Havana “Medio Siglo de Descolonización e Independencia en el Caribe Anglófono”.

Fifty-Fifty will culminate in August 2012 with a flagship international conference in Kingston, “Fifty-Fifty: Critical Reflections in a Time of Uncertainty” involving over 300 scholars and practitioners organised in some 67 panels and roundtables. Details of this conference will be captured in the SALISES report for 2012-13. The expected short-term research outputs of the project include a commemorative conference volume, a number of edited collections based on specific themes and special fifty-fifty issues of the SALISES journal Social and Economic Studies. Plans are also afoot to produce a film which will document the project and explore its critical themes. More mid-term benefits are expected to come from the sustenance and expansion of the research clusters and the identification of a research agenda which will form the basis of the Institute’s work for the coming decade and beyond.

New MSc Programme

Following a curriculum review in 2011, fellows from all three SALISES branches at Mona, St Augustine and Cave Hill participated in preparing a new MSc in Development Studies to replace the old Master’s programme, with its separate offerings in Economic Development Policy, Governance and Public Policy and Social Policy. The restructured programme is both a response to the Quality Assurance Review of 2010, which argued that the Institute must concentrate on its unique strengths in research as well as to fill a perceived need for the training of high-level interdisciplinary personnel who will play leading roles in transforming the regional public and private sectors. It is expected that the programme will be approved for possible delivery in 2013-14.

Graduate Scholarships

Following a decision to convert available administrative posts into funding for graduate research students at the thesis-writing stage, SALISES Mona in 2011 welcomed its first fully funded graduate scholars. They are Jide Lewis, Pauline Gregory Lewis and Jodi-Ann Reece.

Faculty Research Fellowship

In another important initiative, SALISES Mona hosted its first fully funded Faculty Research Fellow, Marina Ramkissoon, from the Department of Sociology, Psychology and Social Work. This harks back to an older tradition, in which the Institute's forerunner ISER provided physical and intellectual space for Faculty of Social Science members to complete outstanding research and writing projects.

New Initiatives

Professors Percy Hintzen and Jean Rahier from Florida International University visited SALISES in 2011 to discuss the possibilities for a broad project involving inter-disciplinary collaboration around research, teaching and student and faculty exchanges. As a first initiative, FIU will bring four panels to the August Fifty-Fifty conference. In June 2012, Brian Meeks, Terri-Ann Gilbert Roberts and Patsy Lewis along with colleagues from the Department of Government Mona, participated in a workshop/discussion in Martinique with colleagues from the Université des Antilles et de la Guyane and Bordeaux University. The purpose was to find ways to improve the existing UWI/UAG/Bordeaux Masters scheme and to develop an agenda of collaborative research between the participating institutions. Further discussions will take place at Mona in November 2012.

Staff Movements

Mrs. Rubyline McFadden, Secretary III, in the Publications Unit retired on June 1, 2012. However, she has been offered a one year post-retirement contract which will come to an end on June 1, 2013. She assisted Dr Patricia Northover with organizing the conference on Globalization, Climate Change and Rural Resilience.

Ms Nazma Muller was retained as a part-time copy editor and public relations writer. She works out of Trinidad and Tobago.

Ms. Marsha Dennis-Dixon is pursuing a part-time Bachelor's degree in International Relations here at the University.

Drs. Philip Osei and Aldrie Henry-Lee proceeded on a year's Sabbatical Leave in August 2012. Dr Henry Lee will be replaced by Dr Annicia Gayle-Geddes and Mrs. Mary Clarke, while Dr Roy McCree from the SALISES St Augustine Campus will replace Dr. Osei.

Professor Trevor Munroe continued as Visiting Professorial Research Fellow for 2011/2012, Chairing the Politics and Governance Fifty-Fifty Cluster and teaching in the course Contemporary Governance Issues (SALI6041). Mrs Maxine Henry Wilson continued as Visiting Fellow. She chaired the Fifty-Fifty Education cluster and assisted in graduate supervision.

DOCUMENTATION CENTRE

The SALISES Documentation Centre (DC) continued to deliver invaluable information and library service to graduate students at the University and more specifically to those in the Social Sciences. Other local and overseas researchers also utilised the facilities, especially visiting lecturers, research fellows and graduate school students from the United States and United Kingdom.

The DC continued to work with the Main Library to increase access to online databases while at the same time acquiring relevant print documents including government documents, both local and overseas, UN reports and those of international agencies, work produced by SALISES fellows and other staff members of the Faculty including conference papers.

Readings for the SALISES Graduate Programme, the Human Resource Development Programme (HRD), and the departments within the Faculty were processed and made available for both semesters.

Some of the key activities during the period included:

- Three displays related to the Fifty-Fifty Research Project mounted at the DC by staff:
 - Seminar on Grenada Revolution (1979 – 1983)
 - International Day for Rural Women 2011
 - Law and Justice in the Commonwealth Caribbean: The Post-Independence Experience
- SALISES participated in ‘Mona Research Days’ which was held from January 26-27, 2012. The DC staff with assistance from Ms. Annie Paul coordinated this activity and members of the academic and other SALISES staff helped with the manning of the booth. Posters were also produced regarding the Fifty-Fifty research cluster activities.
- The DC began collecting and archiving all memorabilia, including pictures, videos and clippings, of all Fifty-Fifty activities since its inception.
- A reorganisation of the collections continued over the period to allow more accessibility to some of the heavily used collections. Some sections of the collections were weeded and shifted to create space and improve visibility and accessibility. A shelf reading of the special collections began in the summer period and is expected to be completed in the new academic year.
- Mrs. Newman and Mrs. White continued to play an active role in the Library Association of Jamaica (LIAJA). Mrs. Newman also sits on the Administrative Reform Committee and the Client Care Committee of the Faculty of Social Sciences re the Strategic Plan, 2007-12.
- Two students from the Department of Library and Information Studies, Simone Tyrell and Mable Reid, completed their six weeks field work at the DC, during the period June to early August 2012.
